

Kutscher's Blues Band succeed in blending the rock-spirit of the 1960s and 1970s with sounds that Rage Against The Machine, Muse or Mando Diao are famous for. That's why the band's music attracts both fans of the blues rock genre and lovers of classic-rock and pop-acts.

Virtuosic guitar riffs go hand in hand with marvellous songwriting and gorgeous lyrics. The band manages to tear down the walls between different genres of music, typical elements of blues-rock mingle with elements of classic-and alternative-rock. Nevertheless, Stephan Kutscher's guitar style is distinctively inspired by Jimi Hendrix, Stevie Ray Vaughan, Rory Gallagher and Randy Rhoads.

Kutscher's Blues Band are already a popular part of the Viennese (blues-)rock-scene. Within the last years they gathered a remarkable fan base by playing at the "Donauinselfest" (one of Europe's major music open air-festivals) or as support band for Ryan McGarvey, Rob Tognoni and Michael Lee Firkins at the Vienna Blues Spring. Three times (2017-2019) they thrilled the European blues rock scene on stage at the Rory Gallagher Tribute Festival Vienna.

Their much acclaimed debut album "The KE Sessions" was released in October 2017, rewarded by representing Austria at the European Blues Challenge in Hell (Norway) in 2018. In 2019, the band got more "international", playing the Zagreb International Blues Festival and numerous gigs in Germany and Austria. Currently, they are working intensively on new songwriting for further songs that are planned to be released this year.

The band was founded in 2014 and consists of Stephan Kutscher (guitar/vocals), Consti Hoeffinger (bass) and Christoph Karas (drums).
